RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 50 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in.Excerpt: . . . it Agnes asked Neale, as they ran the car out of the garage after dinner. I guess we are going to hand dear old Mr. Howbridge a big handful of trouble. Crickey! isnt that a fact grumbled Neale. The more I think of it, the sorrier I am we put that advertisement in the paper, Aggie. There was nothing more to be said about that at the time, for Mr. Pinkney was already waiting for them on his front steps. His wife was at the door and she looked so weary-eyed and pale of face that Agnes at least felt much sympathy for her. Oh, dont worry, Mrs. Pinkney! cried the girl from her seat beside Neale. I am sure Sammy will turn up all right. Neale says so-everybody says so! He is such a plucky boy, anyway. Nothing would happen to him. But this seems worse than any other time, said the poor woman. He must have never meant to come back, or he would not have taken that picture with him. Nonsense! exclaimed her husband...
