Reagan, of Texas: Made in the House of Representatives, on the 1st Day of June, 1880; Discussing the Problem of the Regulation of Railway Transportation of Inter-State Commerce The House being in Committee of the Whole, and having under consideration the bill (H. R. No. 4748) to establish a board of commissioners of interstate commerce, and for other purposes; and the proposed substitutes for said bill by Mr. Reagan and Mr. Mclane - Mr. Reagan said: Mr. Chairman: These bills relate to the most important questions before Congress. They are pressed on our attention by numerous petitions from the people of every State in the Union, and by the people and the press of the country, demanding action at our hands. The Legislatures of New York, Pennsylvania, Nevada, and Iowa have passed resolutions favoring such action by Congress as will restrain the monopoly powers of the railroads engaged in transporting interstate commerce, and as will restrict and control their power to levy discriminating charges and unjust exactions on our commerce. Political conventions of a number of States and of all political parties have passed resolutions for the same purpose. These bills relate to the freight rates and charges, directly or indirectly, of the whole internal commerce of the United States, amounting to about thirty billions of dollars worth annually. They are intended to influence and control the action of the railroads of the United States, now aggregating about eighty thousand miles in length, and constructed at an aggregate cost of nearly five billion dollars in money. The broad extent of our country and the great diversity of its climate, soils,...
