In central New Jersey we have a wide variation in types of soil, ranging from very light sandy loam to stiff clay and red shale. Potatoes, and particularly the Cobbler variety, are rather critical as to the type of soil on which they are grown. If the soil on one farm is capable of producing a 300 bushel crop, while the soil on another is capable of producing only a 150 bushel crop, what chance has the man who plants potatoes on the 150 bushel farm? We all know that the success of the Ford Motor Company, in a great measure, is due to low production costs. The potato growers costs have been too high. There are two things of vital importance to be considered to reduce these costs. First, take an inventory of your land, consider whether it is suitable not only for the production of a big yield but a big yield of good quality. Don t plant potatoes on scabby land. If your land will not produce potatoes, it is advisable to devote it to some crop other than potatoes. The second point to consider in the reduction of costs is in the buying of supplies. Central New Jersey spends...
