And what with spites and what with fears, You cannot let a body be; It s always ringing in your ears, They call this man as good as me! What profits now to understand The merits of a spotless shirt--A dapper boot--a little hand--If half the little soul is dirt? You talk of tinsel!--why, we see The old mark of rouge upon your cheeks. You prate of Nature--you are he That spilt his life about the cliques. A Timon you! nay, nay for shame; It looks too arrogant a jest--The fierce old man--to take his name, You bandbox. Off, and let him rest. We can scarcely pity the man who had invited this terrible onslaught and suffered by it so dreadfully. But Tennyson himself was inclined to magnanimity; he was the first to M regret his own denunciation; and within a week of...
