Talk about being governed by the officials; it strikes me that four or five of you on this Council only want to boss the officials and this Council, to get London as you have into your clutches, and decline to make known the honest opinion of the people whom London pays for. You are going to carry the resolution, but I am not going to be bound by it, whether you like it or no. You have never hesitated during the last four years, never hesitated even at the last election to take every item for certain charges made against me and publicly proclaim them. Many were private and confidential communications, which you put into that leaflet, you know, and you said to the ratepayers, Remember Poplar. (A voice--They did.) Yes, they did, and they will remember you at the...
