Reviews

Completely essential read through publication. It normally does not expense excessive. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

S. minerals industries to develop, process, and obtain continuous access to minerals needed to satisfy the Nations industrial requirements. In response to this concern, H. R. 3364 was introduced. The bill proposes the creation of a Council on Minerals and Materials within the executive branch and several other measures that would help to establish a national minerals policy. Title VIII of the bill would require the Attorney General to review the U. S. antitrust laws, rules, and regulations to determine their effect on the productivity and profitability of the domestic mining and minerals industries. In connection with title VIII, GAO was requested to conduct a preliminary review of antitrust enforcement as it relates to the minerals industries, in order to draw conclusions on the feasibility of a broader based study. GAO found that there has not been a significant number of nonfuel-minerals, industry-related antitrust cases litigated at the Federal Trade Commission or the Department of Justice over the last several years. In addition, officials in the nonfuel-minerals industries generally do not view antitrust enforcement as a serious obstacle to their activities. Although the findings do not rule out a more detailed study of antitrust impact on the minerals industries, as title VIII of H. R. 3364 proposes, GAO believes that such a study would encounter two major difficulties: (1) methodology that would be hard to develop; and (2) results that could not readily be applied to all minerals industries because of each industrys uniqueness. However, GAO found two matters related to antitrust enforcement which should be examined further to determine whether they impact on the minerals industries and U. S....
