Indeed, with the continued and increasing demand for millinery of this character the Audubon Society can comfort itself with the fact that the demand could not be met by the plumage of the birds they are seeking to protect, but necessitates the use of substitutes. The combination of quills, hair aigrette and fancy head or quills with fancy feather cabochon is specially good and admits of beautiful variety of coloring. The influence of the Oriental coloring is very marked in this fancy feather effects. The superstition against the wearing of peacock feathers will be overlooked. if not ignored, as some very artistic mounts are offered in these feathers. When the colors are extracted, the resultant soft brown shades are most attractive and the marking of the eye preserved, wherein dyeing the feather. it is lost. to $75,000 worth of goods and will be maintained in quantities at all times. Mr. Ayer trusts that all the buyers looking for ostrich goods that will run absolutely uniform on all duplicate orders will call and see the lines of the new company and particularly requests his friends and former patrons to call when in New York....
