J8 2009za OCLC Number: (OCoLC)654376542 Subject: Emigration and immigration law -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 illegal immigrants are down 68 percent, and that is the category I am talking about. Criminal arrests are down 60 percent, criminal indictments are down 58 percent, and criminal convictions are down 63 percent last year. The only activity that has increased is the amount of requirements under the I - 9 audits. Such audits, which were a fixture of INS policy during the Clinton administra-tion, are widely considered to be ineffectual. The fines that busi-nesses face are small and too small to deter the activities that we are concerned about. In addition to focusing on paperwork issues, the administration has repeatedly refused to take into custody or deport illegal aliens found working when you do the investigations. In one high-profile case, for example, American Apparel, a noto-rious Los Angeles-based immigration scofflaw garment manufac-turer, they were allowed to terminate hundreds of illegal employees in a series of small weekly dismissals, and the illegal aliens were allowed to walk free and in a way that would allow them to seek employment elsewhere. A recent story on Minnesota Public Radio recounts a similar practice where 1, 200 illegal aliens were found employed in well-paid janitorial jobs, but instead of detaining and deporting them, the officials went to great pains to assure the public that they were not being arrested. When we spoke about worksite enforcement at the last hearing, you told me, We continue worksite enforcement, and we continue all our enforcement actions, and we will very vigorously. In your written response to questions for...
