Excerpt: .to Thy palace gates, and jars Just for a moment s space on the full-toned music there 1 Make no more children, God! only men who can suffer and bear! XI. 1 was a child, and trembled with joy at the brightness nigh, I dreamed that my spirit had part with the woods, and the streams, and the sky, In the cycle of nature s rejoicings, and I knew that a voice was mine To waken men s hearts to the knowing this heritage, theirs, divine! XII. I felt the mystic vibrations of the ether that stretches afar, That thrills in the souls of men, and broods o er the furthest star. Love--love--twas in love the whole universe rested, I cried--like an ass! Some more brandy, Tom.--While I talk, I think you might fill my glass. XIII. That s enough! Ah, I wish that...

A brand new eBook with a new standpoint. I have got read through and i also am confident that i will gonna read again once again down the road. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
